

Kyle Roberts is a licensed acupuncture physician, ayurvedist and educator. He bridges various healing modalities through a dynamic style that utilizes Chinese medicine with components of ayurveda. Kyle's efforts are spent integrating these classical healing methods with modern practicality for individual health concerns.

Kyle is a graduate of Dragon Rises College of Oriental Medicine in Gainesville, Florida and the Ayurvedic Institute in Albuquerque, New Mexico. As an educator, Kyle has taught throughout the United States, Europe, Canada, and Central America on the vast principles of traditional healing. He has also participated with various indigenous groups in South America exploring different plant medicine practices.

In addition to his formal medical training, Kyle has also studied Jyotish (vedic astrology), various methods of meditation, and herbalism. As a student of nature, Kyle views that the sciences of self-healing and self-discovery are of deep importance for optimal cultivation of wellbeing. Currently, Kyle lives in Florida operating an acupuncture clinic and teaches as much as possible.